Wonky by Michelle McGhee

This photo shows how drums are recorded to be put in a song. Producers like J Dilla would record the drum portion first before mixing the song.

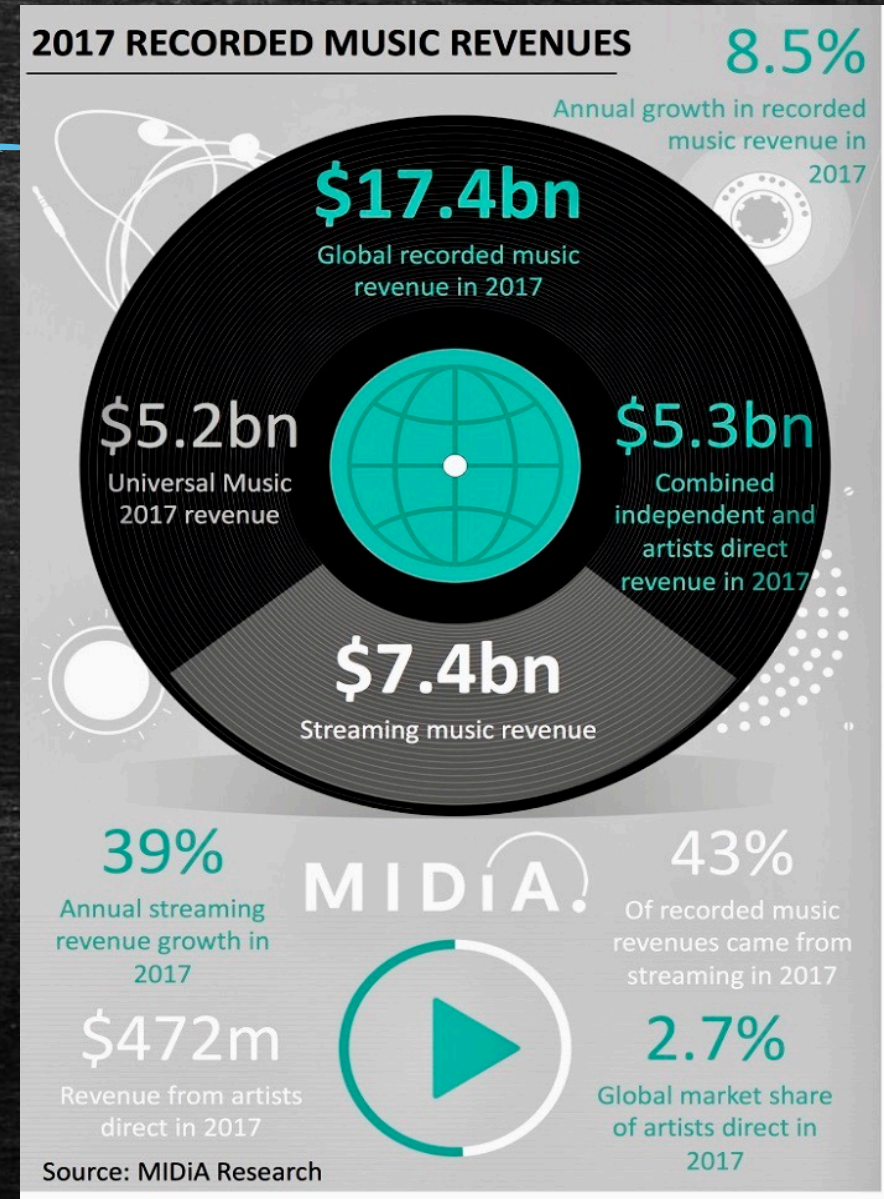

In this photo, this guy is mixing music. In my video, I plan on talking about how music production is extremely important in how the rhythm flows in the song.

J Dilla produced hip-hop and r&b music, and this woman is effectively embodying the vibes of r&b, and hip-hop.

In my presentation, I would talk about how J Dilla produced that type of music, and talk about how the groove of r&b affected music and how J Dilla affected and challenged

This chart shows the average salary for signed artists and independent artists. As one can see, signed artists make more money than an independent artist. In my presentation I will speak about how it is in the recording label's favor to be open minded to independent artists so that they can wrap their mind around the statistics

This is Questlove, the drummer on The Late Show with Jimmy Kimmel. In my presentation I will be discussing the quotes of him from the article and will be finding music to underlay on the photo.
