

Since I haven't been able to go to my on site visit yet, I really cannot give much feedback from it. With that being said, I've been intentionally preparing for the upcoming visits so I can make the most of it. I've been reviewing background materials about the side and the people I'll be meeting and interviewing. I'm focusing more on showing up with curiosity, humility, and a willingness to learn more.